The above publishing business certifies that it distributes its news publications at no cost to readers and pays unrelated third parties to print its news publications.

Louisiana Revised Statutes 47:301(3)(h) and 47:301(13)(i) allow qualifying publishing businesses to pay sales tax on the lesser of the following costs:

1. The printing cost paid to a unrelated third party to print such new publications, less any itemized freight charges for shipping the news publications from the printer to the publishing business and any itemized charges for paper and ink.
2. Payments to a dealer or distributor as consideration for distribution of the news publications.

In electing to pay sales tax on the payments to a dealer or distributor for distribution of the paper, the publishing business is granted a sales tax exemption for the printing costs paid to an unrelated third party. The publishing business is responsible for paying the sales tax on their distribution costs.

Notice to Dealer: Report this sale under exemption code 1117.
